Gentlemen:

Recently I had occasion to see a medallion, double-faced, made by Whitehead and Hoag, and designed by E. Fuchs, commemorating the discovery of the Hudson River; was a Hudson Fulton design, illustrating navigation, and was made of bronze.

May I request you to inform me what particular value this medallion has, and if there are any on the market, for sale? Also if possible, how many were struck off at the time.

Thanking you in advance, I am

Respectfully yours,

Dear Sir:-

Your letter of January 20th has been duly received. Medals for the Hudson Fulton Celebration were struck in various sizes and metals. One hundred silver medals were struck for this Society, and have all been disposed of..

Others were struck for the Hudson-Fulton Commission. Whitehead & Hoag, Newark, New Jersey, may have some, or be able to give you some information.

Very truly yours,.

Secretary.
